We Relate

Our Story by Radio

This book is a "broadcast" on which you may "tune in" again and again. It is a "review" of people, places, and accomplishments of Tolleston School.

This is station T H S, owned and operated by the school city of Gary, Indiana, located on the southern shore of Lake Michigan. This program is coming to you over the "blue and white" network of the SENIOR BROADCASTING COMPANY by authority of TOLLESTON RADIO COMMISSION.

We Dedicate

this program to our "listeners".

They made this "broadcast" possible. This large group is comprised of thousands of patrons and friends, 1,606 students, 51 teachers and clerical assistants, Principal J. W. Standley, directors and supervisors, Superintendent H. S. Jones, and the Board of Education. If they can see that Tolleston is the kind of school they admire and that we are the kind of graduates they had hoped for, we shall be pleased.

The Tolleston Student Council is an organization composed of twelve members. Two members are elected by each class and four members are elected from the high school classes by the faculty. Its purposes are as follows:

1. Act as an advisory group in matters pertaining to the extra-curricular activities of the student body.
2. Unify all extra-curricular student organizations under one general control.
3. Aid in the internal administration of the school.
4. Aid in fostering sentiments of law and order.
5. Promote general activities of the school.
6. Promote in all ways the best interests of the school.

The officers of the council are a president, vice president, and secretary. All officers of the council are council members. The candidates for office in the council are nominated and elected by the council and not at the general election.

Regular meetings of the council are held once a week during school hours; the day and time are designated by the faculty adviser. Special meetings are called by the president whenever necessary.

The council has the following powers:

1. Arrange and publish the social calendar for all student organizations early in the semester.
2. Grant charters to clubs and organizations and demand written reports from them each month.
3. Write, edit, and publish a Student Hand Book.
4. Sponsor a general election which shall be held near the end of the school year.

How lovely you are !

Advisory Council

Other members not present when the picture was taken are Mrs. William Reside, Mrs. Joseph O'Brock, Mrs. Gilbert Mueller, Mrs. Clinton O'Dell, and Mrs. Chester Romanowski.

The Advisory Council met with Principal J. W. Standley every third Monday of each month during the school year to discuss school problems. The purpose of this group is to co-ordinate the activities and responsibilities of the school and the community. Mrs. Kurth is secretary of the organization.

A new activity of the council this year was its work in conjunction with West Building Visiting Day and Conference Hour.

Card parties were held throughout the year to make money for favors to be presented to the graduates and to those who attend the Junior-Senior Prom. The students are very grateful for these gifts and also for the help they give in making their graduation activities successful. The council also sponsors the Mothers' Day Tea each year.

Other activities of the council were a trip to Garfield Park Conservatory and to the W L S Broadcasting Studio, a shopping tour in December, and a trip which included the Easter Flower Show, Tribune Tower, and the W G N Broadcasting Studio.

Many's the time that you helped us,

West Jolleston School Parents' Visiting Day and Conference Hour

Purpose: To promote understanding and co-operation between the home and the school.

This group was organized in October, and it met the third Monday of each month thereafter. The parents visited classes from 12:15 to 3:15. At 3:15 the parents and teachers assembled in the auditorium for a conference hour which was divided into three parts:

1. Presentation of some subject matter field by a teacher.
2. Question period.
3. Informal conference period.

The programs this year included discussions of Beginning Reading, English, and Health of the School Child; a talk by Mrs. Johns, principal of Jefferson School; and an exhibit of school work, held on the day of the Mothers' Day Tea.

Miss Grace Foster was chairman of the group.

Book rental. . . Locker keys. . . Attendance. . . Tickets sales. . . Lost Books. . . "Where were you at 3:15 yesterday? . . What have you done now?"

Mrs. Nawrot, checking programs, credits, points, units and grades.

We appreciate your kind attitude;

And now we're about to leave you;

The Hit Parade — Seniors

We Graduate

Now we are leaving; the light of our learning must shine upon a new world. Four years have we spent learning to live and to be able to live. They have been happy years.

Teachers we once held in awe have now become cherished friends and advisers. Things we believed incomprehensible are facts we understand today. Goals we once thought not attainable are things that are past and conquered—and now we have a new goal.

To find and take our place in the world is our new goal. Those hours in mathematics when we digested equations by the page—we shall carry some of that knowledge into the fray of living. Hours in English, which were paragraphs long, have equipped us to make contacts and good impressions. Speeches we gave in auditorium and plays in which we participated will help us to converse in an easy manner. We are bristling with the fundamentals of life.

We have gained something else just as invaluable as scholarship in these passing years. We know how to associate with our fellow men. Without this fellowship we would probably be selfish, morbid, and misanthropic; but on the contrary, we are, to a great extent, tolerant and helpful.

So, with the first step in our life in the shining past, we step through the magic mirror into the future with our destiny in our hands and our heads high with hope in anticipation of worlds to conquer.

Closing The Door

I close the school-door of my childhood years
To start upon a journey old as man;
The road all youth has traveled now appears—
Such is the pattern, life's unfolding plan—
I stand upon the threshold but an hour—
New dreams, new vistas stretch before my eyes
Of work and service, happiness, and power.

And if the path is bathed in living light,
The light of knowledge that can make man free
From ignorance and shackles of the night—
The light of faith, of love, of liberty—
I shall walk forward calmly with no fears,
Knowing this light will guide me down the years.

These are the remaining varsity raiders who will continue to fight on the gridiron for good old Tolleston during the '40 season. Filling the shoes of the graduating players who built up such an enviable record, they hope to surpass and bring greater victories to the blue and white than any previous team. Among these players are George Knezevich who was chosen as the center for the All Star Honor Team of the Little Five Conference; and Mike Banchy, Leo Yarutis, and Nick Zelenick who were chosen as end, guard, and tackle on the All Star Second Team of the same conference. There will be no doubt that the line will be powerful with these boys playing next year. This line will be aided by a speedy backfield which should prove to be a successful combination.

They Accelerate

The Tolleston Blue Raiders closed their 1939-40 basketball season in possession of the Post Tribune Victory Ball. This is the first time in the school history that they have done so. To obtain the trophy they defeated the Edison Eagles of East Gary by a score of 47 to 33. The greatest highlights of the season was the 32-30 overtime defeat of a very powerful Thornton team and the heartbreaking 35-33 loss to Emerson of Gary. In the sectional tourney Tolleston advanced to the second round where they lost to the ultimate champion, Froebel, 40-24.

R. O. J. C.

COMPANY H

Because of the great demand for military training at Tolleston by our athletic department and because of the enthusiasm exhibited by the Tolleston community in general, an R.O.T.C. unit was established this year.

R.O.T.C. training endeavors to teach boys how to take care of themselves when they reach manhood no matter what vocation they may choose. By placing the boy in a militaristic atmosphere, he develops more easily the habits of responsibility, punctuality, neatness, and intelligent planning. R.O.T.C. training brings to light to the boy the honor and privilege he possesses because he is an American. He is taught the duties of a good citizen and also he is taught interesting facts about the United States which every citizen should know.

Leadership, the most important objective of R.O.T.C., is practiced daily in every form. Before one can lead others successfully, he must learn to follow. Likewise, in an R.O.T.C. unit one must be a cadet before he is an officer.

A boy who takes R.O.T.C. is not obligated in any way to the United States government because he has military training. R.O.T.C. is classed as just another subject in high school. The Annual Military Ball which is attended by the four R.O.T.C. units of Gary is one of the most celebrated events of the city.

In spite of the fact that this was the first year that Tolleston offered military training, our unit has shown remarkable progress. Sergeant Vondrasek meets the boys in class every day at 2:15. The two companies include 98 cadets.

They Radiate

The one matinee dance was in keeping with the spirit of Hallowe'en. Black cats, lighted pumpkins, witches, and corn stocks gave the dance an eerie atmosphere. Favors were in the form of little candy witches, owls, and cats.

The awarding of the sweater certificates was combined with the Christmas party. Twenty-six girls were honored in the event. Bunco was played, and prizes were given. The girls were served a tasty chili supper and chocolate milk. Dancing finished the joyful evening of lively fun.

Then came volley ball, one of the favorite sports. Seven teams played in the contest, and the seniors were victorious. This sport was followed by basketball, and the juniors won in the finals. This victory was celebrated by another potluck dinner. Inter-school basketball games were played with Froebel and Lew Wallace. The scores — ??? Well, we managed to hold our own.

Skating, captain ball, handball, and tennis proved attractive to a large number. A baseball play day, sponsored by Tolleston and Emerson, concluded our sports.

Our first formal dance was held in full swing on April 13th. With the gala music of Michael's orchestra, everyone was in the spirit of dancing. "Gone with the Wind" furnished ideas for the decorations. A stately mansion and southern belles made the scene very attractive.

The happy, successful year was climaxed with a banquet. Awards were given and new officers introduced.

They Donate

Mrs. Stewart Malings, president; Mr. William Henke, treasurer; Mrs. William Henke, vice president; Mrs. Mona E. Kritlow, assistant secretary.

The Band Booster Club, a group of energetic parents and faculty members, gives time, service, and money to help the band.

The 1939-1940 season opened with the knowledge that the band won first place in two contests: First place in class D at the Chicagoland Music Festival at which there were over 8000 musicians competing with 13 in this particular class; and first place in the Tournament of Bands at Riverview Park, Chicago.

The annual school carnival, held November 17 and 18, was another success. The club voted to use the proceeds by purchasing 5 additional band uniforms and 100 robes for the orchestra and chorus.

The fifth annual banquet was held in the recreation room at the Westminster Presbyterian Church. The following "five-year" officers were each a recipient of a gift from the club: Mrs. John H. Bean, Mrs. Mona E. Kritlow, and Mr. William Henke

Regular business meetings were held the first Thursday of each month and social meetings the third Thursday of each month throughout the year.

The club co-operated with the students in the sale of tickets for the annual concert which was held before a large audience of music lovers in the Memorial Auditorium, April 26. The club also sponsored the band's participation in the Blossom Festival at Benton Harbor, Michigan.
